HOW TO CARE FOR YOUR SOFTSHELL JACKET

Durable Water Repellent (DWR) is a polymer substance applied to the face-fabric of the softshell garment. This finish helps the softshell fabric resist wetting by causing the water to bead-up so it easily falls off before being absorbed into the fabric. Additionally, our softshell fabrics have a waterproof film membrane that prevents penetration of the water through the fabric. Washing the jacket to keep it clean of soils and debris will prolong the DWR and help maintain performance.

1. Zip all zippers, and close all fasteners.
2. Wash your jacket in a regular washing machine, in cold water, on a gentle cycle.
3. Use a mild powder detergent, as liquid detergents can leave a residue on your jacket that will interfere with the DWR coating.
4. Put it through the rinse cycle twice, to be sure the detergent residue washes out.
5. Dry your jacket in a tumble dryer on a medium heat setting (40°C / 104°F) for 40 to 50 minutes. Do not use bleach, fabric softeners, dry clean, or store when wet.

REMOVING GREASE

To remove grease from a technical jacket, dampen the stain and rub in dishwashing detergent. Then wash the jacket in warm water with plenty of mild powder laundry soap.

RENEWING THE DWR COATING

Overtime, your softshell garment will lose its DWR coating. When this happens, DWR should be reapplied to the garment. This should be done once per season, or more often if the garment receives a lot of use or washing.

THE TACTICAL SHOTGUN RELOAD SYSTEM

MADE IN USA

The Shotgun Reload System (TSRS) allows an operator to carry more ammo than other shotgun shell extension systems. The Tactical Shotgun Reload Platform features a detachable 6-round magazine strip that is the same size as the standard 30-round A.R. magazines, allowing an operator to carry the strips on their tactical vest to increase their ammo capacity. In conjunction with the Reload Platform, The Tactical Shotgun Reload Buttcuff platform allows the operator to mount the buttcuff to most shotgun stocks and making reloads quicker at the operators reach. The shotshell strip is part of the system designed to attach to the buttcuff or modular platform for quicker reloading of your firearm. The TSRS also allows an operator to use the same mag pouches designed for A.R. mags and insert additional 6-round magazine strips.
